

THE INTAGLIOS

Electronic Press Kit (EPK)

Classic Rockabilly & Country • Roaring Fork Valley (Western Slope), Colorado

Short Bio

The Intaglios are a rockabilly trio from Colorado's Roaring Fork Valley, performing classic rockabilly and country from the hits to the deep cuts, while developing original material steeped in tradition. Influenced by artists ranging from Gene Vincent and Eddie Cochran to The Reverend Horton Heat and Corb Lund, The Intaglios deliver high energy performances with a timeless rock 'n' roll spirit.

Long Bio

Rooted in the traditions of early American rock 'n' roll and country music, The Intaglios are a Colorado based rockabilly trio bringing classic sounds to modern stages. Based in the Roaring Fork Valley on the Western Slope of Colorado, the band performs a carefully curated mix of well known hits and lesser known gems from the rockabilly and country canon.

Drawing influence from foundational artists such as Gene Vincent and Eddie Cochran, alongside modern torchbearers like The Reverend Horton Heat and Corb Lund, The Intaglios approach the music with equal parts reverence and energy. Their performances balance driving rhythms, sharp guitar work, and tight ensemble playing, all delivered with a raw, authentic edge.

In addition to their interpretations of classic material, The Intaglios are actively developing original songs that fit seamlessly within the rockabilly and country tradition. Though newly formed, the band has begun establishing itself on local stages and is available for live performances throughout Colorado and beyond.

Lineup

Patrick David Dechant — Lead guitar, lead vocals

Matt Trinidad — Bass guitar

Dan Rosenthal — Drums, backing vocals

Available For

Bars & clubs • Music venues • Festivals • Private events

Press-ready Quotes

"A sharp, no frills rockabilly trio delivering classic sounds with conviction."

"High energy rock 'n' roll rooted in tradition and played with authenticity."

"Classic rockabilly and country, performed with a timeless feel and modern drive."

Booking

Direct booking: Patrick David Dechant

Email: booking@theintaglios.com